Long-Term Italian Courses: Your Pathway to University in Italy

With years of experience supporting hundreds of international students, Interlinguae offers tailored language and academic preparation programmes designed to help students build their future in Italy. We have welcomed students from a wide range of linguistic and cultural backgrounds, including the United States, Asia and, more recently, the Middle East. This international experience enables us to understand each student's specific needs and provide personalised support throughout their learning journey.

From Language Learning to University Preparation

Our programmes go beyond traditional language courses.

For students planning to pursue higher education in Italy, we have developed a comprehensive learning pathway that combines intensive Italian language training with specialised academic preparation.

The first stage focuses on building strong Italian language skills, from everyday communication to the more advanced language required in an academic environment.

Once students have reached the appropriate level of proficiency, they can move on to the second stage: studying STEM subjects (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) directly in Italian.

This approach helps students become familiar with subject-specific vocabulary and scientific terminology, develop confidence in an academic setting and prepare for the challenges of studying at an Italian university.

Preparing for English-Taught University Programmes

Planning to study in English instead?

Interlinguae also offers dedicated academic preparation pathways for students interested in English-taught degree programmes at Italian universities.

These programmes provide subject-specific preparation directly in English, helping students strengthen the academic language skills and knowledge they need for their chosen field of study.

Long-Term Italian Courses Tailored to Your Goals

In addition to our university preparation pathways, Interlinguae offers a wide range of long-term Italian language courses, available in both standard and fully customised formats.

Whether your goal is to enter an Italian university, improve your language skills or prepare for future professional opportunities, we can help you find the learning pathway that best suits your needs.

Study in Italy with Dedicated Support

For international students who require a visa, eligible long-term study programmes may provide a basis for applying for an Italian study visa, subject to the requirements established by the relevant authorities.

Our team can provide information and guidance on the course documentation needed to support the application process.
